CORNELL ADJUSTS FOR WAR

By EDMUND EZRA DAY

President, Cornell University

DURING the year since Pearl Harbor, Cornell, like other colleges and universities, has grappled with two basic problems: first, how our resources can best be used to help win the war, and second, how, without holding anything back from the war effort, we can preserve some of the long-range functions of a great institution of learning—cultivation of the arts and the pursuit of truth, provision of liberal as well as technical training, and support of the work of scholars, artists, and scientists. The two problems should not be confused. Winning the war comes first, regardless of the magnitude of the sacrifices that may be demanded. But continuing the liberal tradition, without which no democracy can long endure, cannot, even in these times, be entirely ignored.

Radical adjustments have been made at Cornell during the past year. Women students have been moved from Sage Dormitory and men from the Baker Dormitory group to make way for the 900 or more student officers in the new Naval Training School. A mess hall and a Diesel engine laboratory have been constructed for the Training School. The Civilian Pilot Training program is now instructing officers and enlisted men of the Navy instead of our own students. The College of Engineering is training men of the Army Signal Corps in communication and men and women selected by the Army in ordnance inspection. The constantly expanding ESMWT program for industrial employees in the Southern Tier and western New York State has increased the total of its enrollment to more than 12,500 and the number of its teaching centers to 18.

Members of the faculty and staff in the Army and Navy or in some other type of war service now total 247, including a unit of 33 from the Medical College staff who were called to active duty in July with Army Base Hospital No. 9. Students have also answered the call to military service in considerable numbers. A decrease of approximately 10 per cent in total enrollment during the spring was caused in large part by withdrawals of men to enter the armed services; and the decrease of 9 per cent between October, 1941 and October of this year was caused entirely by the loss of men. Of the male students who have remained in the University, more than 80 per cent of those physically qualified are enlisted or in process of enlistment in the reserves of the Army, Navy, Marines, or Coast Guard, or in the advanced R.O.T.C.

Every college and school in the University offers an accelerated program which allows, and in some instances compels, students to advance toward graduation more rapidly by studying the year around. A rigid course of physical training is now required; student use of automobiles in Tompkins County has been banned; and houseparties have been discontinued for the duration. Throughout the University, courses of instruction have been introduced, abandoned, or changed to meet war needs as they arose.

But the second phase in the process of adjustment to the war, one that may begin before these lines reach print, will be far more drastic than the first. With the passage of the new Selective Service Act, lowering the age limit to 18, male enrollment in American colleges and universities will pass almost completely into the control of the Army and Navy. Under plans being formulated in Washington as this is written, all who come into military service by the draft or by voluntary enlistment will be tested for intelligence and special aptitudes by the Army and Navy. A considerable proportion of them will then be detailed, in uniform and with pay, to selected institutions qualified to give them the types of training desired.

These training courses, lasting from 9 to 27 months, will have specific military objectives. The total number selected for such technical training will approximate the normal male enrollment in American colleges, but total enrollment will probably be cut in half before many months, because most of the men will remain a relatively short time.

Cornell has much to offer in such a program and will not suffer as seriously as will institutions that lack strong scientific and technical departments. Our Medical College, Veterinary College, and College of Engineering will doubtless continue to operate at capacity, as will some of the science departments in the College of Arts and Sciences. But other divisions, such as the Law School and various departments offering courses in liberal arts, will be handling few if any students.

Cornell must therefore, in the next few months, squarely face this question: Can we afford to eliminate all departments not directly used to train men for the Army and Navy? Surely the answer is No. The University must continue courses needed by women students, and must also supply training for men physically disqualified for military service but useful in war industries and in essential civilian services; and such training will be considerably broader than that demanded by the Army and Navy. Cornell has an obligation to these students, even though their numbers will probably not justify the expense of continuing some of the kinds of instruction they may desire.

But Cornell has an even greater obligation to its own tradition and to the future welfare of the nation. We cannot afford to allow our distinguished faculties in the arts and humanities to be entirely dispersed. We must be ready, as soon as the war is won, to reestablish those departments whose primary function is to promote humane and rational living. We shall not be able to do this if the long-term, basic functions of the University go into total eclipse for the duration of the war. Distinguished faculties cannot be built overnight. Cornell's ablest scholars and scientists must be protected now if they are to serve Cornell tomorrow. Their perspective, their judgment, and their knowledge will be needed in the postwar world.

Any radical readjustment of personnel, facilities, and program in an institution as large as Cornell is a costly process. It is especially costly if we attempt, besides meeting the immediate problem, to conserve long-term values. Financially, the outlook is ominous. The Board of Trustees has estimated that the deficit for 1942-43 will be $100,000, but this is merely a guess. The true figure may be less, but probably will be more, because the estimate was made before the new Selective Service Act was passed.

Undergraduates Scale Ladder on New Commando Course.

That deficit was predicted even though, because of the accelerated programs, tuition from many students is now being received on a year-round basis—a 50 per cent increase per student per year so long as he remains in the University. It was also predicted in the confidence that Cornell alumni, through the Alumni Fund, would again supply at least as much financial support as last year—approximately $115,000.

The Alumni Fund can be proud of its achievement during 1941–42, as recorded in this annual report. Despite uncertainty and rapidly shifting values, Cornellians held fast to Cornell. The need for that steadfast support of the University is even greater now. And the necessity for unrestricted funds, which the Alumni Fund provides, will be greater, because the prediction of specific needs is becoming steadily more difficult.

Each of us this year must make personal decisions as to what we shall sacrifice and what we shall hold fast. Some of these decisions will have very important effects on the present and future welfare of America as a nation. I believe that when the final decisions are made, great institutions of free learning like Cornell are going to stand with top priority. This country cannot live without them, if it is to remain free. As that conclusion becomes clear, the forces that will rally to their support will carry them through.

Our contribution to the public weal is characteristic of the Cornell we know. Cornell has had a distinguished record in other wars, and will make one in this. And if given continued support during these years of crisis, Cornell will make even greater contributions to the better world which will inevitably come.

COUNCIL'S REPORT FOR 1941-42

By EDWARD E. GOODWILLIE, '10
President, Alumni Fund Council

IN SPITE of the war, increased costs, and taxes, and the thousands of younger alumni going into active service, Cornellians as a whole did a magnificent and vitally important job for the University this year. The drastic developments of this period made it necessary to revise our growing class organization and practically abandon it in the younger men's classes, but still Cornell received the largest Alumni Fund from the greatest number of Alumni since 1931. During the year which ended on June 30, 1942 the Alumni Fund Council turned over to President Day and the Trustees $115,856.02 in unrestricted Funds from 7,536 Alumni and friends of Cornell. This total was made up of two Alumni Funds, the general Fund at Ithaca totalling $112,738.52 from 7,126 contributors, and a new Medical College Alumni Fund inaugurated this year with $3,117.50 from 410 Alumni of that college.

In addition to the particularly important unrestricted gifts reported through these Alumni Funds, the University received Class Memorial and other Alumni endowment incomes totalling $11,164.92 from Funds set up by Alumni in the past. During the year $19,479.81 was collected through the Council and added to the principal of these Class Memorial Funds and the Semi-Centennial Endowment Fund, $5,024.05 was added to the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs Scholarship Fund, and $10,547.25 received for non-endowed scholarship funds. In this same period the University received $86,697.56 in bequests from Alumni.

As the year neared its close in June there was a very marked increase in the volume of War Stamps and Series F and G War Bonds received at the office in Ithaca. These gifts which do double duty by aiding the national war effort and Cornell's war effort will undoubtedly make up an even greater proportion of the current year's Alumni Fund total.

In view of the complex and critical conditions outlined by President Day in his message to the Alumni in this thirty-second Annual Report of the Council, it is perhaps unnecessary to mention the vital importance of our 1942-43 Alumni Fund. Your

Executive Committee, therefore, has decided to follow through with the plan of Class Committee solicitation which has been responsible for the highly successful Alumni Funds of the past two years which have established a level approximately fifty per cent above that of the past ten years. An important part of that plan is the publication again of this Annual Report, inaugurated last year, to recognize both our generous contributors and our loyal Class Committee members. The Executive Committee wants to express again its sincere and grateful appreciation to our Class Representatives and their Committee members whose time, effort, and gifts have been responsible for the Fund's success.

The Alumni whose gifts year after year are responsible for Cornell's greatness cannot be adequately recognized or honored in this or any single report. It is, nevertheless, with sincere pleasure that your Executive Committee reports to you at this time the expression of sincere and grateful appreciation of the Board of Trustees and the entire University Administration for the especially important Alumni Fund of 1941-42.

At the annual meeting in May in Ithaca, the members of the Council re-elected the entire slate of officers for the current year. New members of the Executive Committee elected to serve until June of 1945 were Stuart Hazlewood '03, J. Eugene Bennett '11 and Dorothy Lampe Hill '26. These committee members succeed the late Christopher W. Wilson '00, Katharine Buckley '01 and R. W. Hooker '21. George Munsick '21 and George C. Castleman '30 were appointed to fill the unexpired terms of Caesar Grasselli '22 who resigned as a member of the Executive Committee to become a Major in the Army Service of Supply, and William M. Vanneman '31 who resigned to accept a commission in the Navy. The Council is fortunate in having these active and able alumni join in the direction of its program, thus continuing its proud record of service to Cornell.

SECRETARY'S REPORT

*By Walter C. Heasley, Jr. '30,
Executive Secretary,
Alumni Fund Council*

THE continued improvement in the 1941-42 Alumni Fund total was again a direct result of the generous and unselfish effort of our all-important Class Committees. Naturally war service and activities disrupted our class organizations during the spring solicitation. In the younger men's class committees it was impossible to carry through with any degree of personal solicitation, but more of the earlier classes were better organized with the result that the total of both Fund and contributors compared favorably with last year. This year plans for more direct mail solicitation in the younger classes should help offset the loss suffered in this quarter during 1941-42.

During the period of this report several Class Committees did important and noteworthy jobs. In percentage of the Class contributing, the Class of 1895 under Representative Harry J. Clark led with 37.44%, followed closely by the Class of 1897 under Representative F. F. Bontecou. In the larger and later classes, 1910 under Representative Harold T. Edwards led with 35.22%. In total number of contributors the Class of 1915 under Representative Matthew Carey jumped from 163 to 285 contributors to lead the Class of 1910 with 237.

The Class of 1892 under the guidance of George W. Bacon and his Fiftieth Reunion Gift Committee made a special gift of $9,911.76 during this period to lead all classes in Fund total. Solicitation for this model and important Reunion Gift will continue until December 30, 1942, so that this total is incomplete and not comparable to other class reports.

WALTER C. HEASLEY, JR., '30

The Class of 1910 led in regular Fund totals with $7,229.76 followed in order by the Class of 1914 under Representative Leonard Treman and H. W. Peters, the Class of 1915 under Representative Matthew Carey, the Class of 1909 under Representative Creed W. Fulton, the Class of 1903 under Representative Stuart Hazlewood and the Class of 1906 under Representative Nicholas Noyes.

Representatives whose committees exceeded their quotas were in order as follows: George W. Bacon '92, Harold T. Edwards '10, Frank J. Tone '91, Stuart Hazlewood '03, Fred F. Bontecou '97, John J. Kuhn '98, Leonard C. Treman and H. W. Peters '14, Christopher W. Wilson '00, Nicholas H. Noyes '06, Harry J. Clark '95, Creed W. Fulton '09, Harvey J. Couch '01, Herbert E. Mitler '08, Howard M. Rogers '07 and Matthew Carey '15.

Among the women's committees, the Class of 1916 under Representative Helen Irish Moore led in percentage of the Class contributing with 36.64% followed by the Class of 1912 under Representative Mariana McCaulley Van Deventer and the Class of 1903 under Representative Lucy Tomkins. Representatives whose committees exceeded the class quotas were in order: Lulu Stronge Tarbert '09, Mariana McCaulley Van Deventer '12, Lucy Tomkins '03, Helen Kinney Winkelman '22, Ruth Bentley Shreve '02, and Barbara Fretz Kempton '23.

During this past year the Council has added twenty-four new Representatives to its impressive list of Alumni serving in this important work, and wants to express here the University's and its own grateful appreciation for the work they have undertaken. Special welcome is due the new Representatives of the Class of 1942; Jean Coffin and Richard Young.

An analysis of the year's results shows that 2,182 contributors made gifts during 1941-42 who had not made gifts the year before. This means of course that approximately the same number who did contribute the year before did not make a gift in 1941-42. If the thousands of alumni who have demonstrated their interest in Cornell in the past understood the power and importance of a gift—any gift—every year, Cornell would have each year the ten to twelve thousand contributors which would make her again the leader among all institutions. That is what has already been done by several Class Committees and what will make our annual Alumni Fund the factor it must be in the University's present crisis.

OUR STANDING IN THE FIELD

COMPARISON OF ALUMNI FUND CONTRIBUTORS

The Cornell Alumni Fund was the first to record more than ten thousand contributors (1929-30). It has always been among the first five or six in number of contributors, although its current percentage of contributors to living alumni (12%) is considerably less than the leaders. Dartmouth (57%) and Wellesley (46%).

Class Committee organizations occasionally find it difficult to carry out personal solicitation in those areas where there are a limited number of Cornellians in any one Class. For this reason the following report of gifts by states has been prepared as a means of checking on local prides.

CONTRIBUTORS TO THE CORNELL

The following list contains the names of those who made gifts to the University during the Alumni Fund's thirty-second year (1941-42) as well as those who by the payment of their undergraduate pledges have given Cornell a permanent source of income. Names of other equally generous Alumni who have given to the University in other ways are not included.

The First Year of the Medical College Alumni Fund

THIS YEAR, for the first time, the Cornell Medical College Alumni Association conducted its own Alumni Fund campaign. University officials and the Cornell Alumni Fund Council agreed that the interests of the University as a whole would best be served if Medical College alumni were given the opportunity to contribute directly to the support of their own College, at the same time preserving their privilege to make gifts to the University as a whole if they desired.

Under the direction of Dr. David N. Barrows '12, president of the Medical College Alumni Association, the initial campaign was highly successful, the 410 donors contributing a total of $3,117.50.

President Day and Dean Joseph C. Hinsey have both endorsed the plan and praised the result of the first year of effort. "The establishment of this Fund, through which alumni may express their continuing interest in the work of the Medical College, is an event of unusual importance in these times," Dr. Day said. "It is a source of keen gratification to Dean Hinsey and to me that the alumni of the Medical College have both the desire and the energy to organize themselves for the purpose of offering substantial support, year after year, to the College's program of instruction, research, and medical service."

Dean Hinsey has written Dr. Barrows, "On behalf of the administration of the Medical College, I want to express our heartfelt appreciation of the support the alumni are giving their College during this critical period. This support has a value far exceeding the dollars and cents amount of their gifts. It is the tangible evidence of a spirit of loyalty and cooperation which is deeply encouraging to all of us concerned with the future progress of Cornell University Medical College."

Because of the success of the first experimental campaign, the Medical College Alumni Association plans to continue its Alumni Fund in succeeding years on the same general basis. Under the plan now in operation, a Medical College alumnus may give directly to the Medical College Alumni Fund for the support of the College, to the Cornell Alumni Fund for the general support of the University, or to the Cornell Alumni Fund on a plan which designates part of the gift for the College and part for general University purposes.

CORNELL UNIVERSITY MEDICAL

The Medical College Alumni Association this year has inaugurated its own Alumni Fund to be used for the unrestricted use of that College. During the period of April 16, 1942 to July 1, 1942, 410 alumni of the College sent in gifts totalling $3,117.50. It is with grateful appreciation that the Cornell Alumni Fund Council records the names of the contributors to this important addition to the University's resources.

*Gifts received after July 1, 1942; not counted in 1941-42 totals.
